Peter : Hello Patricia. May I borrow your first aid kit?

Patricia : I am sorry. This first aid kit is not mine. It belongs to Caleb.

Peter : Okay, I will have to wait for Caleb. By the way, its handle is broken. How does he carry it around?

Patricia : The kit fell from his desk. He said he will go home with it in the evening. His father will help him repair it.

Peter : Yes, it is good to have it repaired. It can hurt someone. We also have a first aid kit at home. Ours is not made of wood. My mother keeps it on a shelf.

Patricia : My neighbour has a first aid kit in his car. I have also seen one in the headteacher's office.

Peter : Do you think we should have first aid kit in every home?

Patricia : Yes, we should. They come in handy when we get minor accidents like cuts, insect bites or bruises

Read the passage below and then answer questions 6 to 10

Last Friday, we had a cultural festival in our school. We had brought delicious food from our different communities. Our teacher invited the best nutritionist in our county. The teacher told us that the nutritionist was to advise us on the healthiest foods to eat.

On the day of the festival, I arrived at school earlier than my friend Rita. My mother had prepared the most delicious traditional meal for me. I wanted to share the meal with my friend Rita.

At ten o'clock, we were all seated in the school hall. We shared the tastiest dishes from our communities. The nutritionist stood to speak. He said that traditional foods are healthier than processed food. He advised us to eat more traditional foods since they have the least chemicals, sugars and fats. It was the most memorable cultural festivals I have ever attended.

Read the passage below and then answer questions 11 to 15

Long ago, Hyena used to own a big carrot farm, which he loved dearly. His friend Hare used to sit all day doing nothing. He would always ask Hyena to give him his carrots from his farm. Hyena would turn down Hare's request each time by saying, "You cannot reap where you did not sow." This continued for a long time.

One season, there was so much to be done on the farm that Hyena thought of having an assistant. He told himself, "Two heads are better than one. I will look for somebody who will help me on the farm." One day, he went to see Hare and asked him if he could help him with his farm work. In return, Hyena would pay him with some carrots from his farm. Hare agreed to work for Hyena.

Since the early bird catches the worm, the two would wake up early and work on the farm. At the end of the day, Hyena was very happy because he was able to plant more carrots.

Hare was a hard worker. As days went by, hare felt like he was working too much and thus wanted a pay rise. Hyena refused. Angry with Hyena, Hare decided to steal some carrots from the farm. When Hyena realised that Hare was stealing from his farm, he was angry and chased him away. That is why today, Hyenas and Hares are enemies.

11. Which kind of farm did Hyena own?
