Below is the beginning of a composition. Complete the story in your own words making it as interesting as possible.

It was Saturday evening when I was relaxing at home reading a story book when I saw stranger coming towards our gate. After handshake and brief discussion, he handed me a brown envelope and ......................