Read the passage below and use it to answer questions 26 to 38.

That Saturday morning, there was a bee-hive of activities in our home. It was my sister's wedding day. Our relatives and friends came in their number to our home where the convoy of vehicles would start the journey to church.

At nine in the morning, beautifully decorated vehicles proceeded to a local church. The first vehicle carried the flower girls and the page boys. The maidens and bride-grooms men were in a bus which belonged to the bride's former school. Other relatives and friends then followed with two more buses. The convoy was also made up of four personal cars.

My sister was the queen of the day. She was in a black Mercedes Benz. Her best maid was a popular counsellor who was a friend to the family and a role model to my sister. Her gown was as white as snow and it glittered in the sunlight. The veil was silvery and was sparkling under the sun too. She also wore well done make up. I had never seen my sister as beautiful as she was that day.

When we arrived at the church compound, we met more friends who had come to the wedding. The church choir was ready to welcome us with their melodious songs. At the drop of a hat, the bride groom appeared. He was immaculately dressed. He was in a navy blue suit, a purple shirt and sharp pointed shoes. His best man was also dressed to kill. They made slow but sure steps to the altar. Beautifully dressed people danced around my sister's car to urge her to step out. Soon, she came out of the car. She also walked down the aisle accompanied by both our parents amidst slow but wonderful melodies.

After both the bride and the groom were seated, all the congregation sat as we listened to the service. Later the bride and the groom exchanged vows as they said "Yes I do." There was wild cheering as they wore golden rings. After the ceremony there was a brief photograph session within the church compound. We then started our journey to the groom's former school where the reception was held.

At the reception, we were served with mouthwatering foods and drinks. Celebrities were also there to entertain us with music and comedy. The Hot Dance Crew did an electrifying dance. Later, there was a cake cutting session which was shared by all and sundry. As the sun went down the hills, we went home feeling very happy.
